WOMAN DIES AFTER DRINKING POISON

FATAL POTION MISTAKEN FOR MEDICINE, KIN
OF VICTIM SAY

Mrs. Bessie Logsdon, 40, Succumbs in Hospital.

HAD BEEN ILL

Funeral Services Thursday in Seventh Street Home.

Mrs. Bessie Logsdon, 40, wife of Clyde Logsdon, died in the City hospital at 7 o'clock last night after drinking poison at 5:30 o'clock in her home, 141
West Seventh street.

Find Empty Bottle.

According to members of the family the fatal potion was taken in mistake for medicine by Mrs. Logsdon, who had been ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Logsdon were seated at the supper table when the wife suddenly arose and walked to the kitchen cabinet.

"Well, I've done it," Mrs. Logsdon is quoted as having said. Logsdon rushed to her side and found an empty bottle on the kitchen cabinet. He called Dr. Albert J. Michels, who ordered the woman to the hospital. She was taken to the hospital in the Miller ambulance.

The family came to East Liverpool about a year and a half ago from Newell.

Funeral Services Thursday.
Coroner J. M. Van Fossan, East Palestine, will conduct an inquest here tomorrow morning.

Mrs. Logsdon is survived by her husband, one son, Kenneth, at home;
her mother, Mrs. Nettie Opdyke, Evansville, Ind.; two brothers, Bert Opdyke, Pittsburgh, and Frank Opdyke, Miami, Fla.; three sisters, Mrs.
Nellie Mercer, Congo, Mrs. Ietta Robinson, Cincinnati, and Mrs. Margaret Berger, Evansville, Ind.

Funeral services will be held in the home at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon in charge of the Rev. W. H. Baker, pastor of the First Church of Christ.
Burial will be made in Riverview cemetery.

Today

Big Day Tomorrow.
Ten Years Away.
What is Beyond.
Hoover and Germany.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review.)

THE big day and the two most deeply interested probably feel uncertain.

The usual thing will happen. No need to say exactly what it is, in this case. Another day of happiness for both candidates means a good deal.

THE biggest vote ever cast is assured, biggest by many millions. This is due not alone to deep interest in the issues, but especially to the radio, carrying THE PERSONALITY OF CANDIDATES into the homes.

WHEREAS in former elections a few hundreds of thousands heard speeches and arguments in this campaign, tens of millions listened, heard distinctly and based opinions on voice and personality, more than on arguments or promises.

THE two issues brought to the surface, and a third that should influence no vote but that will influence millions, unfortunately, arouse the strongest human emotions.

The big issues, openly discussed on both sides, are PROHIBITION AND PROSPERITY. Prohibition argument is based on much sincerity and much bitterness. Prosperity is a question of common sense.

AND prosperity will decide this election. If the voters believe that the country is well run, prosperous, with promise of continuing and increasing prosperity, they will vote to prolong the Republican administration.

If they agree with Mr. Raskob that our prosperity is a myth, and that a Democratic administration would do better, they will vote the Democratic ticket.

AD there is nothing sordid about this. Government is established first, to provide justice; second, to provide prosperity and happiness based on prosperity.

And there is no substitute for prosperity.

HOOVER CARRIES
TWO HAMLETS

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Nov. 6.—
Herbert Hoover was leading his Democratic opponent for the presidency, 53 votes to 11, on the basis of first complete returns turned in today by two hamlets in the Berkshire hills.

In New Ashford, the first town to complete its balloting Hoover received 28 votes and Smith 3.

GEORGE FARLEY
DIES IN SALEM
AFTER CRASH

Sherwood Potter Second
Victim of Auto Wreck.

19 YEARS OLD

Cecil Wines, Driver of Car, Instantly Killed.

George Farley, 19, Sherwood potter, died in the Central clinic at Salem at 7 o'clock last night, second victim of the crash at the Fort Wayne railroad crossing on the new East Liverpool-Youngstown highway, near Columbiana, Sunday night.

Farley's death was attributed to a concussion of the brain, fractured right leg and other injuries sustained when the automobile in which he was a passenger crashed into the side of an east-bound freight train.

Coroner J. M. Van Fossan, East Palatine, who conducted an inquest here yesterday afternoon, rendered a verdict of "accidental death" in case of Cecil Wines, 20, driver of the car, who was instantly killed.

Farley was a son of Mr. and Mrs.
Hayes Farley, Sherwood. He was employed as a daymaker at the No. 2 plant of the Hall China company. Besides his parents he leaves two sisters, Mrs. Inez Eddy, of this city, and Helen at home.

Funeral services for Wines will be conducted in the home of his parents,
Mr. and Mrs. George Wines, 425 West
Eighth street, at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, in charge of the Rev.
A. H. O'Brien, pastor of the First Baptist church. Burial will be made in Riverview cemetery.

Services for Farley will be held in his parents' home at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

BAND CONCERT
WEDNESDAY NIGHT

A parade, followed by an open air concert, will be given by the newly organized East Liverpool City band tomorrow night.

The band will leave its rooms in the city hall at 6:40 o'clock and march to the Diamond where an hour's concert will be presented beginning at 7 o'clock. Purpose will be to show the new uniforms recently purchased through public subscriptions.

The band made its first appearance in the new uniforms in the Hallowe'en parade at Wellsville. The uniforms are of a blue broadcloth with red trimming. They were furnished at wholesale cost through Harry Altman, Market street clothier.

The band is directed by H. F.
Schenkel while Clem Dawson is drum major and soloist. Other officers are:
Manager, William Auld; assistant manager, Byron Whitehill; librarian, Paul Gruber; property manager, Wilbur Denning.

SLEDGE HAMMER
STRIKES WORKMAN

Michael Bosel, 35, pressman at the East End plant of the American Virtified Products company, is confined to his home in Green lane today suffering with injuries to his face, sustained when accidentally struck in the face with a sledge hammer welded by a fellow worker.

Bosel was holding a drill when the hammer glanced and struck him. He was rendered unconscious. He was attended by Dr. F. F. Davis.

APOLLO, PA., MAN
HELD FOR THEFT

M. R. Leslie, 45, Apollo, Pa., is being held in the Chester jail charged with stealing an automobile owned by Clarence Pugh, living back of Chester. The car, which was taken from the Pugh barn at 5 o'clock this morning was found two hours later by Chief of Police Ralph Allison at Second and Carolina avenue.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—A vote a that Chicago set in what promised to be the biggest election in history today. By 10 a. m., four hours after the polls opened, 46 per cent of the 1,386,631 registered voters had cast their ballots. It was estimated that more than 1,000,000

QUESTION MAN
IN GIRL'S DEATH

LAKE FOREST, Ill., Nov. 6.—Sheriff Lawrence Doolittle, State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county and Chief of Police Barney Rosenbagen of Lake Bluff, rushed today to the home of Oscar J. Kloer, an entertainer, who frequently worked with Charles Hitchcock, night policeman at Lake Bluff in special performances, after Kloer collapsed while driving his automobile today near his home.

Kloer is the neighbor of Hitchcock with whom Hitchcock insists he spent the evening the night Elvira Knaak,
"turnage girl" of Lake Bluff was fatally burned in the basement of the Lake Bluff police station.

Whether the rush of the officials to Kloer's home was in connection with the murder of the girl or not, was not stated by the officials in their haste.

Staaken airfield at 7:55 a. m. today and started back for its hangar at Friedrichshagen.

The populace of Berlin again experienced the thrill of seeing the first trans-Atlantic passenger and mail air liner soar above the city a few minutes later. The officers and crew of the Zeppelin were received by President von Hindenburg during their stay here yesterday and congratulated upon their two voyages across the ocean.

TRAIL GAMBLERS

New Yorker Mysteriously Shot in Hotel
Suite.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Arnold Rothstein, picturesque Broadway plunger who was mysteriously shot in a suite at the Park Central hotel last Sunday night, died at the Polyclinic hospital
today.

Death came at 10:20 this morning.
Up to the very end Rothstein refused to tell the police who had shot him.
He died as he had lived, true to the code of his world.

While the spectacular career of the colorful Rothstein came to an end—the end he himself had feared—the police were scouring the underworld for the men who were in the hotel suite on the night that Rothstein was "plugged" through the abdomen.

They were seeking for questioning five men—three from New York, and two Chicago gamblers.

Rothstein, according to police, theory, was shot in a dispute over a gambling debt of $329,000, incurred in a "million dollar" poker game in an apartment house in the Times Square district some weeks ago. Rothstein, known to all his friends as a "square gambler," who always paid his debts, refused to pay this one because, it is said, he became convinced that the game was crooked.

ROTARY HEARS
SAFETY TALK

E. T. Crane, Canton, head of the Safety department of the Ohio Power company, addressed members of the Rotary club on accident prevention at the noon luncheon in the banquet hall of the Y. M. C. A. today. C. W.
Jollyer was chairman.

P. T. Cahill, Cleveland architect, discussed the proposed $160,000 city hall and $400,000 Central fire station bond issues. Carl Smith, G. E. Wisener, George W. Robinson and Guy Jacobs, Staubenville Rotarians, were guests.

TWO ELECTORS
DIE IN BOOTHS

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The first death due to the election was reported today from Jamaica, Long Island, where a voter dropped dead in a voting booth.

The voter was Charles Leutersack, 44, of Queens Village, who was stricken with a heart attack as he was about to cast his ballot.

NEWTON, Mass., Nov. 6.—Excited while casting her ballot today, Mrs. Ella M. Marshall, 65, of this city, dropped dead at the polling place of precinct 1, ward 7. She had just been checked off and handed her ballot when she collapsed. Death was believed due to heart failure.

HOOVER GETS
COOLIDGE VOTE

President Marks His Ballot Straight Republican.

BY GEORGE E. DURNO.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Nov. 6.— President Coolidge came back to his adopted state of Massachusetts this morning to register his voice as an individual citizen in the day's recording of the nation's choice to succeed him in the White House.

At City hall, he marked his ballot straight Republican—Herbert Hoover for president, and the entire state ticket as entered by the G. O. P.

Three other votes for Hoover accompanied the president's—those of Mrs. Coolidge; Edward T. Clark, private secretary to the president, and Mrs. Clark. The latter two also maintain a voting residence in Northampton.

These four votes probably were the most costly that Hoover received, for a special train was chartered to take them here from Washington. Two dozen secret service men, newspaper men and photographers, plus aides, office attaches and railroad officials, helped swell the total cost of the train. Massachusetts however, was most debatable territory and in addition, the president wished to impress upon the citizens by his personal pilgrimage to the polls, the importance of exercising the franchise.

ABDOMEN CRUSHED

Slips From Seat on Vehicle Near Knoxville.

Slipping from his seat on the back end of a truck and falling beneath the wheels of a heavy trailer, Thomas Hohman, 56, of Johnson place, Wells-ville, was killed this morning at 8 o'clock near Knoxville, Jefferson county, enroute to work.

The man was crushed through the abdomen and one leg was broken.

Hohman, an employee of the See-man Contracting company, which is engaged in cutting a right of way for Ohio Bell Telephone company toll lines between Wellsville and Steubenville, left on the contractor's truck at 7 o'clock.

According to reports received by the family, a quantity of wire on the rear end of the truck, where Hohman was sitting, slipped and was about to fall off. Hohman reached for it, lost his balance and fell in front of the trailer.

The body was taken to the Haugh funeral home in Wellsville.

Hohman is survived by his widow and nine children. He had lived in Wellsville for the last two years, having moved there from New Cumberland, W. Va.

ELECTION PARTY

150 AT COLORED
VOTERS' RALLY

About 150 men and women attended the colored mass meeting held in the high school auditorium last night in the interest of the Democratic ticket.
The Rev. J. W. Ribbens, Chicago
minister, and Dr. James A. Owen, Cleveland physician, were the speakers. Music was in charge of the "Jolly Four," Wellsville quartet.
The Rev. John Jackson, East End, presided.

Approximately 5,198 votes, representing about 54 per cent of the registered vote, had been cast in East Liverpool at noon today, according to estimates based upon returns from 21 of the city's 23 precincts.

VOTE RETURNS
AT 7:30 P. M.

The Review will bulletin and megaphone returns from today's election at its office in Washington street, beginning at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

A special election wire will carry returns from every state of the union on the presidential fight.
Tabulations in East Liverpool and Columbiana county will be relayed from the election board office to the Review.

The election service will be continued for a greater part of the night. The public is invited.

No Reports from Two Precincts
"The returns indicate a record-breaking poll," said Jack E. Roberts, chief deputy of the Columbiana county board of deputy state supervisors of elections. "The noon hour total is by far the largest ever reported in East Liverpool."

Twenty-one precincts from which returns were available reported 4,760 votes cast, an average of 226 votes a precinct. No figures were available from Precinct B of the First ward, one of the city's largest zones, or Precinct F of the Fourth ward, taking in the Pleasant Heights district.

The largest vote was recorded in Precinct D of the First ward where 350, out of 594 registered had visited the booths. Precinct B of the Second ward with a registration of 502 had 310 votes in the boxes at noon. The lightest vote was reported from Precinct G of the Fourth ward where 123 of the 282 registered electors had cast their ballots.

Voters Stand in Line.
Precinct officials reported men and women electors to have been almost equally divided during the forenoon voting. Election workers were kept busy during the morning, many of them being compelled to forego their noon lunch. In some precincts voters were waiting in line for the polls to open at 6:30 o'clock this morning.

The polls will close at 6:30 o'clock tonight. Electors, who are in line at that hour, will be permitted to vote.

REPORT HEAVY
VOTE IN STATE

Ideal Election Day
Weather Throughout
Ohio.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 6.—With ideal election day weather prevailing throughout Ohio today, voters of the Backeye state were balloting in unprecedented numbers, according to reports reaching state election officials here.

"An extremely heavy vote," is the word received by Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown from county election board members in the rural districts as well as in the cities.

The election is proceeding quietly,
Brown said.

The secretary of state was informed that heavy voting started early.
Many women were numbered among the early voters.

With big lines of voters awaiting the opening of the polls in a number of precincts here this morning, election officials were swamped by the early vote which was said to be the heaviest in the history of Columbus where 121,000 voters had registered.
A record vote was expected in Cuyahoga county. It was estimated that not less than 25,000 voters in that county had cast their ballots within three hours after the polls opened. The total vote today in Cuyahoga county was expected to approximate 350,000.
Reports of unusually heavy voting came from Cincinnati, Toledo, Dayton, Youngstown, Akron, Canton, and other industrial centers. Similar reports were received from numerous villages and rural districts as well as cities.

LINCOLN HIGHWAY BRIDGE SOUTH OF LISBON WILL BE OPENED DEC. 1

New Span Will be Illuminated at Night by Erection of Electric Lights.

LISBON, O., Nov. 6.—County commissioners have been informed by Contractor H. C. Armstrong that the new bridge on the Lincoln highway, south of Lisbon, will be opened to traffic on or about Dec. 1. This span will be illuminated at night by the erection of electric light posts at the four corners of the structure.

All forms have been built for the top concrete work, including side walls.

The road just north of the bridge is to be raised in order that it will be in line with Jackson street, north of the tracks of the Pittsburgh, Louisville & Western railroad.

HALF HOLIDAY AT COURTHOUSE

All offices at the court house closed at noon today as a result of a resolution passed by the county commissioners Monday afternoon. This resolution conforms with a state law, which provides that the afternoon of an election day is a half holiday, although probate court was opened at noon. Twelve full holidays are now observed in court house offices, in addition to the half holiday on election days.

FATHER IS HELD FOR ABANDONMENT

Vincent E. Leibler of East Palestine, who was returned to Columbiana county Sunday from Racine, Wis., by Sheriff George Wright, is held in the county jail in default of $2,000 bond, following an arraignment before Justice M. K. Zimmerman at Lisbon on an affidavit filed by his wife, charging abandonment of his two minor children. Leibler, through his counsel, Everett L. Lyon of East Palestine, entered a plea of not guilty, waived a hearing and was held for the January grand jury.

Geneva Jackson, with whom Leibler is charged, went to the northwest with, was charged in juvenile court before Judge Lodice Riddle with aiding in the neglect of the minor children. She has been held under $1,000 bond.

Frank Schreiber and Louis Swager, both married, of East Palestine, were arrested at Cleveland and returned to Columbiana county by Probation Officer McCready, were given suspended sentences on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor child. Schreiber was sentenced to six months in the Canton workhouse and the woman to Marysville.

During the hearing, the wife of Schreiber and the husband of Mrs. Swager determined that the pair should be forgotten. The court agreed that the best interests would be served by permitting each party to return to his or her own homes and children.

FIVE MEN APPLY FOR CITIZENSHIP

Peter Shingler, 39, a potter and native of Longton, Stoke-on-Trent, England, has filed his declaration of intent with Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine to become a citizen of the United States. He lives in Maplewood, East Liverpool, and arrived at New York on Nov. 3, 1923.

Other declarations have been filed by: Michael Schell, 30, residing at 79 Franklin avenue, Salem, and a native of Rumania. He is a metal finisher and arrived at New York, Aug. 15, 1923.

Adolph Bohr, 25, a florist, 305 Garfield avenue, Salem, and a native of Germany. He arrived at the port of Baltimore July 18, 1907.

Antonio Frontone, 23, of 315 Broadway, Wellsville, a mill worker and a native of Italy. He arrived at New York April 25, 1909.

Graziano Gilatta, 36, a mill worker, 220 Third street, Wellsville, and a native of Italy. He arrived at New York March 23, 1909.

PLAINTIFFS WIN IN FORECLOSURE

Judgments have been entered in favor of four plaintiffs in foreclosure actions pending in common pleas court for several months.

In the case of The Peoples Savings & Loan Company, of Lectonia against Petrea Smith and others, judgment for $2,095 and costs has been entered and an order of sale has been made.

Judgment for $780.94 and costs has been handed down in the case of the Farmer's National bank of Salem against Hugh Duncan and others. A decree of foreclosure and order of sale has been entered.

A similar entry has been made in the case of the Perpetual Savings & Loan Company, of Wellsville in its case against Antonio Creaturo and others. Judgment for $1,740.60 has been entered and a decree foreclosing a land contract.

HERRIOTT CASE IS POSTPONED

Failure of counsel from the office of Attorney General Turner to appear in common pleas court Monday caused delay in the hearing of Charles C. Herriott of East Palestine, who has been cited by Judge W. F. Lones to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt.

Recently a petition was filed in common pleas court by the public utilities commission, asking for an injunction to restrain Herriott from continuing in the motor transportation business without procuring a state certificate.

There has been one hearing, and the court permitted a continuance in order that additional evidence could be introduced. Counsel for Herriott had contended there was no cause for action.

Mrs. Burton Advises Women on Motherhood and Companionship

"For several years I was denied the blessing of motherhood," writes Mrs. Margaret Burton of Kansas City. "I was terribly nervous and subject to periods of terrible suffering and melancholia. Now I am the proud mother of a beautiful little daughter and a true companion and inspiration to my husband. I believe hundreds of other women would like to know the secret of my happiness, and I will gladly reveal it to any married woman who will write me."

Mrs. Burton offers her advice entirely without charge. She has nothing to sell. Letters should be addressed to Mrs. Margaret Burton, Box 100, Massachusetts, Kansas City, Mo. Correspondence will be strictly confidential.

Allowance for Your Old Mattress if You Will Purchase a

SEALY TUFTLESS

During This Week.

During "National Sealy Week" we will allow you five dollars for your old mattress, regardless of condition. Every old mattress taken in trade will be burned.

The Secret of SEALY'S
World Famous Comfort—

... lies in a patented Air Wave Process which permanently knits millions of long staple, virgin cotton fibres into an insuperable, giant, buoyant batt.

No tufts are needed, and being tuftless, the Sealy's smooth, soft surface yields to your body like a giant pillow. Every muscle relaxes and you slip quickly into a sound healthful sleep.

Every night on a Sealy is a night of complete rest, of luxurious comfort. In the morning you're just a different person... so much more energetic, so gloriously alive, so eager to be up and away.

Every member of your family deserves the complete, energizing, restorative sleep comfort which only the Sealy can give. For over forty years the Sealy Tuftless has been America's finest mattress. Ask to have its many points of superiority explained to you.

A trade-in allowance in proportion will be allowed on all Sealy Springs and Mattresses which we have in stock—

New Three-Mile Road To be Opened Nov. 25

Contractor Patterson
Pours Concrete on Lincoln Highway Section Near Pennsylvania Line.

CHESTER, W. Va., Nov. 6.—Pouring of concrete on the three-mile stretch of the Lincoln highway between Chester and the Pennsylvania state line was completed yesterday by Contractor George B. Patterson of Wellsville, O. About three-quarter mile of brick surface remain to be laid.

Work of grading the approach to the new link within the corporation limits of Chester is now under way. This will be a concrete strip 240 feet in length and 27 feet wide.

The road probably will be opened not later than Nov. 25.

BABY HEALTH CLINIC NOV. 13

Dr. J. E. Fisher, county health commissioner, announced today that the next baby health clinic would be held in the council chamber in the city hall on Tuesday, Nov. 13. Another clinic is scheduled for Nov. 27. Dr. Fisher will be assisted by local physicians and the county health nurse.

Rheumatic Agony Goes in 5 Days With Little Green Capsules

This little notice tells you how to conquer your merciless rheumatic enemy in a new and different way—a knockout way. You take one tiny capsule each hour for the first ten hours—then relief comes.

The second day, take one every two hours for 14 hours—Then take 4 little green capsules every day until every last little twinge and every bit of tenderness is gone and your rheumatic troubles have ceased.

The little green capsules now so much in demand from coast to coast must have a name so it is known in every worthwhile drug store in America as Allenru Number 2.

Carnahan's Drug Stores says these little wonder-working capsules must banish all pain and torture in 5 days or money cheerfully refunded.

ENTIRE SYSTEM WAS UNDERMINED; NOW WELL AGAIN

Konjola Gave Her New Strength and Energy; Also Banished Kidney Troubles, She Says.

MRS. H. S. WEBSTER.

"I always offer praise to anything that I believe deserves it and I know Konjola to be a medicine that is worthy of every good thing said about it," said Mrs. H. S. Webster, 1021 Oakdale street, Toledo, Ohio.

"For several years I had been in a rundown condition that sapped my strength and energy until I was but a shell of my former self. Frequent bladder action during the night made it hard to get the proper amount of sleep and I never had the ambition or vigor to accomplish my housework. My health was made all the worse by poisons that gathered in my system and I was at a loss to know what to do for relief.

"But hope was revived when I heard about Konjola and I immediately started on the treatment. Now I have nothing but praise for this medicine as it strengthened and invigorated my entire system. The tired, draggy feeling has given way to one of glorious health and once more I am the happy woman of several years ago. It is all due to Konjola and I know others will gain the same benefits I did."

Konjola is sold in East Liverpool, O., at Carnahan drug store and by all the leading druggists in every town throughout this entire section.

CHESTER CASTS 1,200 AT NOON

Predict Largest Poll Ever Recorded in City.

With approximately 1,200 votes in the boxes at noon election board officials declared that Chester would cast the largest vote in its history in today's balloting in which national, state and county officers will be chosen.

Before the polls opened at 6:30 there were many voters in line at the various precincts waiting to cast their ballots. Women are assisting in checking off the voters and bringing others to the polls. Many automobiles are also being used for the same purpose by friends of rival candidates for county office and supporters of the proposed $35,000,000 bond issue for good roads.

While there is keen interest in the presidential contest this is partly overshadowed by the fight for sheriff between O. O. Allison, of Chester, and J. S. D. Mercer of Weirton, and that in which J. Paul Finley, Chester and Thomas F. McKenzie, New Cumberland, are opponents for the house of delegates.

Reports from Newell, Congo and other precincts of Grant district indicate that the balloting is heavy with new marks to be set before the closing of the polls at 6:30 tonight.

Be Warm and Comfortable with a WOOD-COLA

Circulation is needed to

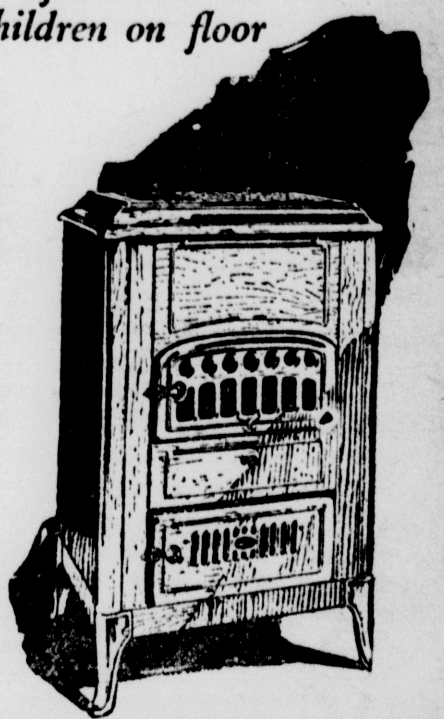

1. Counteract the cold from windows and doors
2. Give even temperature for healthful relaxation
3. Give healthful warmth for children on floor

The Wood-Cola heats by circulation—air is drawn up from the floor, heated again as it passes between the casing and inner heater, and is discharged at the top to circulate uniformly through several rooms. Uniform comfort anywhere in the rooms, whether standing or sitting, and for the children on the floor.

A beautiful heater, exterior finished in American walnut, it blends in with the furnishings of the home. Durably built, with oblong fire box for coal or wood.

Organization of a city band is a move in the right direction. And the members of it should be encouraged.

The American people are beset by a multitude of requests for observance of special days, special weeks, anniversaries of this or that, yet there will be no one, it is felt, anywhere who will not gladly participate in observance of Education week, which means greater good for all, and at no expense to anyone.

It is something of a coincidence that Mr. Wilson, Mr. Ryan and Mr. Lansing, the three men who were so prominently identified with our international policies prior to and during the war, should have passed away so soon after its termination.

American civil government was established in 1901. The governor general is appointed by the President with the consent of the senate and the bi-chamber legislature is elected by the Filipinos except the members from a very few districts who are appointed by the governor general.

Q. What is "Mussolini's Forum?" S. H.

A. This is the latest of Rome's forums. It is being laid out in the new Fascist School for Physical Education at the Farnesina recreation ground on the outskirts of the capital. It is noted by a great marble obelisk, the largest ever extracted from the Carrara quarries. This is 67 feet high and 17 feet wide.

It has a pattern of hearts, diamonds, clubs and spades on its silk length. For those who still pursue the game of mah jongg prizes are tied with ribbon decorated with the East Wind, etc.

Rosalie's dress is a printed silk whose pattern is derived from the colorful tooled leather of old China.

in a book just published, "Raider of the Deep," an attempt is made to present the sinking of the Lusitania in a new light. The author, Low Thomas, professes to believe that the version, based upon an account given to his brother officers by Captain Walter von Schweiger, who commanded the U-20, and at whose order the fatal torpedo was fired, will disprove the erroneous "suppositions" which, he read, arose out of the exaggerated tales told by "dazed" survivors of the disaster. After the U-20 had gone aground on a Danish shoal, von Schweiger was placed in command of another German submarine which in September, 1917, was sent forth with hands. His story of the Lusitania sinking, pieced together from what he told his comrades, would suggest that he did not know the identity of his victim until the torpedo had been fired, although he ordered the missile released when only 400 yds. distant from the huge liner. After the torpedo had done its work, on closing scrutiny through the periscope, von Schweiger and his pilot realized what they had done, but the Lusitania was sinking down rapidly, a horrible panorama of decks, and von Schweiger decided he could at best rescue only a few of the passengers. He divided and made a quick get-away.—Detroit Free Press.

COOKING SCHOOL NEWS
What one taste showed Mrs. Cadle about Pie Crust
A SWEET delicate shortening can make the crust of a pie as delectable as the filling! To make sure that your shortening is sweet and delicate, test it the same way you test your milk and butter—taste it!
Mrs. Katherine M. Cadle did just that; then wrote us:
"The taste of Crisco is sweet, agreeable—without the slightest trace of any 'strong flavor' which one occasionally finds even in the best of other shortenings.
"For pies, Crisco has proven excellent; it makes a flaky crust that browns beautifully and has a fine flavor."
Standard Pie Crust
Amount for one-crust pie (Or baked shell) For medium size two-crust pie
1½ cups pastry flour 2 cups pastry flour
¾ cup Crisco ¾ cup Crisco
½ teaspoon salt ½ teaspoon salt
4 to 6 tablespoons cold water 6 to 8 tablespoons cold water
Sift pastry flour and salt together. Cut shortening in with two knives until the consistency of small peas. Add only enough ice water to hold. Roll. For baked shell, cover bottom of pie plate. Leave enough edge to fold back to make it firm. Prick well with a fork to prevent bubbles. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) for 15 minutes.
Sour Cream Pie
Filling
1 cup sour cream 1 tablespoon flour
¾ cup sugar ¼ teaspoon each cloves, cinnamon, allspice, nutmeg
½ teaspoon salt ½ cup raisins
3 eggs separated
Mix flour and sugar. Add cream and Crisco. Bring to a boil. Add beaten egg yolks, spices, salt and raisins. Boil five minutes, stirring constantly. Cool, pour in baked shell. Cover with meringue. Beat egg whites stiff, add 3 tablespoons sugar and pinch of baking powder. Cover pie. Brown in moderate oven (350° F.).
Chess Pie
Filling
¾ cup Crisco Juice and grated rind of 1 small lemon
1 cup sugar 2 egg yolks beaten
2 egg whites ½ cup chopped raisins
1 egg white ½ cup chopped walnuts
½ teaspoon salt
Cream Crisco, sugar and egg yolks. Add raisins and nuts. Fold in the white of one egg beaten until stiff. Line patty pans with crust, put in the filling and bake in hot oven (450° F.) 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 325° F. and bake until filling is set about 30 minutes. When done, top with meringue made of two egg whites beaten stiff and four tablespoons of powdered sugar. Return to oven to brown.
(All measurements level)
You taste your milk— You test your eggs— NOW . . . taste your shortening Crisco's sweet flavor will delight you!
Crisco was used by Mrs. Frances Northcross in the recent Review Cooking School

1,287 Ballots Cast Here at Noon Today

Heavy Voting Reported in All Wellsville Precincts; Two Districts Reach 200 Mark at 12 O'Clock.

WELLSVILLE, O., Nov. 6.—Total precincts before the noon hour and of 1,287 ballots, approximately three-eighths of the city's voting strength, had been cast at noon today in the nine precincts of the municipality, including, in the opinion of local election officials, probably a record-breaking vote.

The 100 mark was passed in all B of the first ward.

STOP THIS CRIMINAL

Of all the culprits who ply the trade of crime, the arsonist is to be most despised. His victims have been legion. To gain dishonest dollars for himself the arsonist will sacrifice the life of others and imperil property of untold value.

But the hand of the law is fairly certain now to seize this criminal. Detection and punishment have been brought to such a high percentage of success that he has small chance of escape. The Arson Squad generally gets its man!

The Stock Fire Insurance companies, through the National Board of Fire Underwriters and its Arson Committee, wage relentless war against the arsonist.

Squads of trained men work quietly and without noise or show, in co-operation with legal authorities, in every state of the Union, to guard the people of America against this crime of arson and the practice of incendiarism by pyromaniacs and other irresponsible persons.

The results have been gratifying, and will be even more so when the American people realize the menace and cost of incendiary fires.

This is but one of many measures employed by the Stock Fire Insurance companies in the elimination of fire hazards—the conservation of life and property. The Arson Squad works constantly with police, fire marshals, fire departments and other officials.

KIWANIS CLUBS PLAN SESSION

Lisbon Delegation at Salineville Wednesday.

SALINEVILLE, O., Nov. 6.—The Salineville Kiwanis club will hold an inter-city meeting Wednesday night in the dining room of the United Presbyterian church. Ladies of the senior missionary society will serve the dinner at 4:30 o'clock. Lisbon Kiwanis club members will be the guests of the Salineville club, and they will provide the program.

H. S. McPherson, a former merchant of Salineville, died suddenly in Cleveland recently. Mr. McPherson has many friends in Salineville and community where he spent his youth and early manhood. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Viola Devlin McPherson; two sons and two daughters, Eugene E. of Newark, Mrs. Clyde Faison, William and Louise, of Cleveland. Funeral services were held in Cleveland with burial at Knollwood cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Smith, H. H. Kirk, and daughter, Lydia, of Salineville, attended the funeral.

The Dorcas Bible class of the Presbyterian church was entertained by Miss Maggie Smith at her home in West Main street, recently. Mrs. Rella Daniels conducted the devotional service. The business session was in charge of the president, Mrs. Helen James. It was decided to hold a coverdish supper at the home of Mrs. Latta Smith, Friday. The next regular meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Charles Johnson, West End, and the class will have their annual exchange of gifts.

The entertainment was in charge of Mrs. Jetta McCormick. The hostess served lunch, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Jack Smith.

Two properties, one on East Main street, and one on Foundry Hill, owned by the Sharp heirs, were sold in Lisbon Friday to Mr. and Mrs. John Potts of Salineville. They expect to remodel and repair the house on Main street and make that their home.

Miss Fae Smith spent the week-end with her mother, Mrs. Latta Smith. Miss Smith is teaching school at Salem.

Clyde Smith, of Grant Hill, Jefferson county, was in Salineville Saturday.

The Home Missionary society of the Methodist church met in the social rooms of the church recently. Miss Bessie Smith was hostess. The Bible study was in charge of Mrs. H. L. Peoples. A talk was given by Mrs. James Herbert. The president, in charge of the business session. During the social hour, the hostess served lunch.

Mrs. S. E. McCormick visited recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoops, Kensington.

The township trustees met in the City hall Friday night. Routine business was transacted.

The Philathea Bible class of the Methodist church, taught by Mrs. James Herbert, was entertained recently in the social room of the church by the Misses Alice Skinner and Bessie Goldard. About 30 members of the class were present, attired in masquerade costumes.

The committee on entertainment included Mrs. Dora Close, Mrs. Violet McPherson and Mrs. Herbert. Lunch was served by the hostesses.

HOLD CARLSON RITES WEDNESDAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Fred Carlson, 36, Sixth street, who died yesterday at noon following an illness of complications, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the late residence in charge of the Rev. Don Young, pastor of the First Christian church.

Burial will be made in Spring Hill cemetery.

She is survived by her husband; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Moore; two sisters, Rachel and Hazel Moore, at home; and three brothers, Martin and Raymond at home and John of Akron.

ALPHA PI SIGMA SORORITY MEETS

Members of the Alpha Pi Sigma sorority held a business meeting last night in their rooms in Fourth and Main streets. It was the first regular session of the sorority in their new quarters.

Plans were made for an "open house" program next month.

CIVIC LEAGUE TO HOLD MEETING

Members of the Colored Women's Civic league will hold their regular meeting Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 in Lee's chapel. Prospective members of the league are invited to attend the meeting.

Personals

Wilbur Congrove of the Wellsville-Salineville road has accepted a position in Detroit, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Smith of Maple avenue and Mrs. Lily Smith of Tenth street have concluded a visit in Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. William Waters of Minerva have concluded a visit with Mr. and Mrs. William Lowary of Broadway.

Mrs. A. B. Holland is a patient in the Allegheny hospital for treatment for a hand injury.

Mrs. Will Stevenson and sisters, Ida and Emily Shriner, of Chicago, are visiting with the Misses Nan and Helen Stevenson of Main street.

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire to thank all friends and neighbors for the kindness shown us during our recent bereavement in the death of our mother, Mrs. Hannah M. White. Especially do we thank Rev. K. K. Caulk, the pall bearers, Mr. Martin and all who sent flowers.

FRUSTRATE PLOT TO WRECK CAR

INDUSTRY, Pa., Nov. 6.—Police of the Pittsburgh and Cleveland railroad today were investigating another attempt to wreck the gas-electric car which runs between Rochester and Steubenville.

Maurice Dye, 11, Midland, found two cross ties on the east-bound tracks Sunday night and ran to the interurban car tracks and flagged a street car. The ties had been removed when the crew of the car arrived.

Detectives at Wellsville were notified and when they reached the scene the ties had been replaced on the rails.

Young Dye averted a wreck just two weeks ago in practically the same spot.

MOTORIST HELD IN MAN'S DEATH

ROCHESTER, Pa., Nov. 6.—Arraignment of Walter Anderson, Fourth avenue, Freedom, alleged driver of an automobile which early Thursday night struck Sebastian Camerata, 27, Harmony avenue, Rochester, on the bridge spanning McKinley run, causing his death Saturday, was postponed last night until Thursday. In default of $2,000 bond Anderson was remanded to jail.

A charge of involuntary manslaughter has been filed against Anderson. He is also charged with failure to stop and render assistance, preferred by Camerata's brother.

W. AL SMITH CALMLY AWAITS ALLOT COUNT

"I'm But Happy and Contented," He Says.

NOTES AT NOON

Oppes Election Will be Mrs. Smith's Birthday Gift.

By Raymond I. Borst
NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—With one of the most picturesque presidential campaigns in the history of American politics today calmly awaited the count of the ballots, confident that the result would place him in the white seat.

For the first time in weeks the error was relieved of the preparation of a speech, a conference with advisers or the thoughts of parading through a crowd of cheering men and men.

"Tired but happy and confident," said the way the governor expressed himself to close friends when he arose a morning in his suite in the Biltmore hotel. With Mrs. Smith, the governor planned to go at noon to a store a few blocks from his hotel and vote.

Election day has come to mean for Governor Smith that the winning of a public office. It is Mrs. Smith's birthday and with one exception for the last 2 years the governor has presented Mrs. Smith with a gift—his election to office.

Today he hopes to be able to present Mrs. Smith the greatest gift of all—the title of first lady of the land.

During the afternoon the governor planned to catch up on some lost sleep and rest. Tonight with Mrs. Smith and Franklin D. Roosevelt, democratic candidate for governor, and Mrs. Roosevelt, he will listen to stunts by radio in his hotel suite. After in the evening the governor and his party will pay a brief visit to democratic national headquarters.

ACCIDENT BALKS AIR RECORD TRY

ROCKWELL, FIELD, SAN DIEGO, Calif., Nov. 6.—Lee Schoenhair and John Guglielmo today were balked in an attempt to take off here in their biplane Albatross in an effort to shatter the world's record for sustained flight.

Heavily loaded, their giant craft skidded along the runway of the field until one of its wheels struck a spot of soft earth. The axle bent, throwing the plane out of balance. Perceiving this, the pilot brought the plane to a stop, just in time to prevent striking a number of automobiles at the far end of the runway.

HOOVER TO SWEEP WORLD DRY CENTER

WESTERVILLE, O., Nov. 6.—Precinct C, Westerville, Ohio, located in the headquarters of the world league against alcoholism, will vote at the ratio of 100 to 15 in favor of Hoover over Smith, it was indicated here today.

In the nine precincts of Blenden township, in which is located Westerville village, it is estimated by election officials that the vote will approximate 2,000 for Hoover and 200 for Smith.

Plan Sewer Extension

ed on second and third readings. The ordinance provides for the investment of such money which will not be required for a period of six months. The city treasurer will be required to give an additional $10,000 bond in order to handle these bonds.

The following proposals were passed on three readings under suspension of the rules.

Ordinance to improve West alley from Fourth street to Rural lane by grading and paving with concrete; ordinance empowering board of health to enter into contract for removal of garbage; ordinance to levy special assessments for improvement of Smithfield street by grading and paving; ordinance to levy special assessments for improvement of Fairview street by construction of a sanitary sewer; ordinance to levy special assessments for improvement of Orchard and Grove avenue between Smithfield street and John Simbela property. Another ordinance accepting the Sarah A. Kinsey plat, was laid over pending action of the planning commission.

Legal notice of assessments for the improvement of Palisade street, Orchard Grove avenue, East Ninth street, Sutton alley and Montgomery avenue were approved.

The clerk was also instructed to notify Henry Holland, owner of a lot in Lincoln avenue, to clean off earth which covers the sidewalk.

A communication from R. L. Cawood, Park boulevard, asking for the installation of an automobile traffic light at the intersection of Park boulevard and St. Clair avenue, was filed. Another communication from Private Eddy post No. 66, Veterans of Foreign Wars, endorsing the proposed $160,000 city hall and $40,000 fire station bond issue, was read. The clerk was instructed to acknowledge the communication.

Request from O. D. and Henrietta Bly asking for a reduction of assessments levied against their lot in Oakwood avenue was referred to the claims committee.

PUPILS CONDUCT MOCK ELECTION

A mock election in which the pupils are voting for national, state, district and county officers, is being conducted by members of the civics class in the high school today.

Forty-one registered in three precincts. Sample ballots are being used in expressing preference for party nominees. Campaign speeches in behalf of the candidates and party platforms have featured meetings of the class during the last week.

The election is being supervised by Miss Marie Crawford, teacher of the class.

THE ending of the big war is already ten years back in history, a short time for men of sixty, a long time for young people.

Boys and girls of twenty, now shaping the next generation, were only ten years old when the big war stopped. It is as unreal to them as the Civil war.

THE questions on each Armistice day are, "When, if ever, will another such war come to curse the foolish white race; what can we do to keep out of it, if it must come?"

THE answer to the second question is, "KEEP READY FOR IT."

We were NOT ready last time, and that fact cost us fifty billions of dollars and might have cost millions of lives, but for the sudden ending.

EINSTEIN, relatively scientist, about to announce another great discovery, declines to indicate its nature or to tell whether, like relativity, "only eight men in the world can understand it."

This writer, having read three or four books on relativity, can testify that the authors did not understand it.

THAT the universe should be either infinite or limited is unthinkable to our feeble minds. Fin^{is} insets, we cannot grasp infinity and we cannot imagine "an end" to space.

Einstein says the universe is not infinite, it goes so far, about one billion light years, then curves back on itself.

Ignorance replies "very fine, but what is outside of that curve?"

SILLY is the effort to persuade voters of German birth or descent that Herbert Hoover was "an enemy of Germany" in the war.

Captain Lehmann, of the Zeppelin, who called on Mr. Hoover on arriving in the big airship, knows something about what Mr. Hoover did for German women and children.

He said: "Had it not been for Herbert Hoover and his efforts for the relief of Germany thousands and thousands of our people would have starved after the war."

IT is hinted, not on absolute authority, that the "good news" about General Motors, suggested by Mr. Sloan, will take the form of a split up, which will give stockholders two and one-half shares for one, new shares paying 3 per cent, which would be equivalent to 7 1/2 per cent on the present shares.

THE new arrangement would give little people a chance to speculate in General Motors, which is difficult at the present price, with a thousand shares costing about $224,000.

WHEN the Stock Exchange was closed in war time, and Otto H. Kahn advised friends to buy General Motors and make themselves independent, the equivalent of the one thousand shares could have been bought for $2,240. Thus things improve in this country, when they are well managed. But DON'T GAMBLE.

ELMIEDA KNAK, the girl found dreadfully burned in the basement of a police station in Illinois, is dead.

She adhered to her story that she had inflicted the injuries on herself putting her legs, arms and head in the small opening of a furnace, "for purity and love."

THAT she should have the strength to endure such agony amazes the authorities and makes them incredulous, but it need not.

Every boy knows of the Spartan boy that stole a fox, hid it under his clothing, and rather than betray what he had done, allowed the animal to gnaw at his vitals.

There is on record, among horrible stories of torture inflicted during the Middle Ages in the name of religion, that of an old Jew, who endured torture, at intervals, for six months, steadfastly refusing to give false testimony concerning the alleged "blood atonement."

HE was tortured until he could stand no more, returned to his cell to recover, taken out and tortured again. Still he would not tell the lie that was wanted, condemning brother Jews to death, and he died under torture.

The strength of the human will, in exceptional cases, passes understanding.

A BLIZZARD in mountain states temporarily interfered with transcontinental air mail last week and the foolish will say, "you can't rely on air planes." Middle-aged men remember when every little snow drift could stop the railroad trains. Then came the giant snowplow and uninterrupted traffic. Giant planes with powerful engines will pay no attention to blizzards and winds. And thanks to President Coolidge and Postmaster General New our postal service encourages airplane progress.

THOSE who believed yarns relating that wind had shaken all the fruit from the trees in Florida will be interested in a statement by the United States Department of Agriculture that Florida's citrus crop will amount to 18,000,000 boxes, about 45,000 carloads, a crop never exceeded except once.

It takes more than a high wind or a gang of real estate sharks to injure permanently such a state as Florida.

OHIO ELECTORS LINE UP FOR BOOTH PLACES

Many Polling Houses Are Swamped by Early Rush.

VOTE A MINUTE

Hoover and Smith Hold Spotlight of Interest.

Lined up at voting booths, northern Ohio citizens were writing "Think" to the most intense political campaign in the memory of the present generation today.

Practically every county in the northern part of the state was turning in the heaviest vote in history. The problem, particularly in the larger centers, was how to handle the vote.

Many polling places were swamped. One election official in Cleveland pointed to the "mathematical saturation point" of a voting booth. Most of the polling places cannot accommodate many more than one voter to the minute, on an average. The polls are open 12 hours, 729 minutes and the registration in many is much greater.

Hoover and Smith held the spotlight of public interest and county and state tickets are overshadowed. In cities, villages and rural sections men stood together in little groups, talking. And always the discussion centered on one topic—Hoover or Smith?

Heavy Poll in Sandusky.
SANDUSKY, O., Nov. 6.—Approximately 15 per cent of Sandusky's registered vote was polled during the first hour of the polls were open this morning, according to an estimate from the board of elections. Unusually heavy voting was reported from rural precincts.

OTTAWA, O., Nov. 6.—Presaging the intense interest felt by qualified Putnam county voters, more than half of the total vote of the 47 precincts in the county had been cast as early as 10 o'clock today, according to a survey of voting booths.

At this early hour the largest vote ever cast in Putnam county was registered with a seemingly unending line of voters awaiting the opportunity to exercise their franchise.

For more than two hours this morning, election officials were unable to care for the unprecedented situation which arose when a long line of voters formed long before the polls were open.

Brown Upholds Supervisor's Action.
COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 6.—Holding that James Henderson, Democrat, member of the Perry county election board, had acted "within his legal rights as a citizen," Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown today rejected the application of Republican county officials at New Lexington that Brown remove Henderson from the board. Henderson was accused of "misconduct in attacking Republican candidates in a circular which Henderson said to have issued to Democratic committeemen."

Secretary Brown today ruled that Henderson had violated no law. Brown said the statutes do not prohibit Henderson from signing and distributing political literature.

"He has every right of that nature that any other citizen has under the law," said Brown.

New Board on Job.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 6.—A new board of elections, installed by the secretary of state only for days ago after the old board had been removed for alleged failure to curb frauds in past elections, was working doggedly to keep abreast of the situation today as Cuyahoga county went to the polls to register its heaviest vote in history.

LLOYDS ODDS FAVOR HOOVER

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Lloyds today offered 100 to 94 that Herbert Hoover would be elected president of the United States, and 100 to 26 that Gov. Smith would be elected.

CURTIS, ROBINSON MARK BALLOTS

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 6.—Senator Charles Curtis, Republican vice presidential nominee was up early to cast his vote here today.

No senator marked a straight Republican ballot as has been his custom for 30 years.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 6.—Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Democratic nominee for vice president, drew a breath of relief today and with Mrs. Robinson went to the polls to vote his choice for president and vice president.

G. O. P. NOMINEE VOTES IN PALO ALTO PRECINCT

Wife and Three Others in Family Go to Polls.

TALKIES ON JOB
Polling Place at Scene of Hoovers' Romance.

By Lawrence Sullivan.
PALO ALTO, Cal., Nov. 6.—Herbert Hoover, citizen of Palo Alto, devoted himself today with boyish abandon to his vivid cardinal chrysanthemums, his baby grandchildren and his home.

And whatever that decision is, it will be right.

That sentence, from the last campaign utterance of Herbert Hoover, Republican nominee for president of the United States, is the story of election day in the picturesque Hoover home of San Juan hill—a quiet, restful day literally squandered on living in happiness and peace amid scenes and people intimately associated with a long and successful career.

Five Votes in Family.

Apart from the interruption for voting at 10 o'clock this morning, there was nothing on the list "things to be done today," in the Hoover home. Efficiency in the household of this man celebrated the world around for administrative efficiency in large affairs, was measured on this epochal day in the Hoover chronology in the stark terms of children's laughter.

Five votes from San Juan Hill await the tally clerks in the Stanford union precinct of Santa Clara county tonight. In the old red box with the ballots of Mr. and Mrs. Hoover will be found those of Herbert, Jr., of his wife and the first vote of Allan Hoover, second son who has only recently celebrated his twenty-first birthday.

Awaits Verdict at San Juan Hill.
Along the mile drive from San Juan Hill to Stanford Union lay the landmarks which link that almost forgotten era of work and struggle with the day when Hoover awaits the verdict of the nation upon his call to leadership by the Republican party. On the campus Hoover prepared himself for life; here he found his life companion and helper; here at 32 he concluded negotiations with Australian owners for his first venture in mining, here he returned time after time in his journeys to remote corners of the world as engineer, "master of emergencies" and statesman. More than 200 times during the last 40 years has Herbert Hoover returned to Palo Alto.

His has been the base of operations for his entire career, a career without a parallel, perhaps for variety of achievement and diversity of experience. Here, at his home within the limits of Leland-Stanford university campus, where he enrolled in 1891 as the first student in the newly founded college, he will receive returns on the presidential election which may call him to the White House.

John Coolidge Votes.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 6.—John Coolidge, son of the president, drove to his home in Northampton, Mass., to cast his vote. The young railroad clerk reported for duty in the New Haven railroad general offices and was excused by his chief as soon as various routine tasks were performed.

MONCADA ELECTED IN NICARAGUA

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—The Conservatives have conceded the election of General Jose Moncada, Liberal, as president of Nicaragua, the state department was advised today.

With but 70 precincts unaccounted for the vote stood:

Monroe 67,329.
Adolfo Benard, conservative, 49,666.

The election was "honest, tranquil, correct and honorable," said Brig. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, head of the American Electoral mission.

EGGS BOMBARD SENATOR HEFLIN

ANNISTON, Ala., Nov. 6.—In the midst of a scathing attack on the presidential candidacy of Governor Smith, Senator Thomas J. Heflin, stormy petrel of Alabama politics, was bombarded with eggs here last night.

While the senator managed to dodge all the missiles, some of the eggs splattered on the stage and spoiled his clothes. When the bombardment started pandemonium broke loose, and police had to be called to restore order.

Kenton Bank Closed.

KENTON, O., Nov. 6.—Doors of the Kenton Savings Bank and Trust company, did not open for business today for the first time since it was instituted 50 years ago. While the bank remained closed state superintendent of banks, Blair and state examiners went over the books at the request of Bank President W. A. Norton.

PARIS CABINET RESIGNS AFTER BUDGET FIGHT

Poincare Ministry Falls Under Fire of Socialists.

HERRIOT IS FOE

Action is Taken Just as Parliament Meets.

PARIS, Nov. 6.—The French cabinet resigned today as a result of the dispute over the new budget. Premier Raymond Poincare tendered the resignations to President Doumergue just as parliament met.

The Poincare ministry, or the government of national union, as it was called, has been under fire from the radical Socialists for some time. Edouard Herriot, minister of public instruction, led the fight inside the government while the radical Socialist congress at Amers exerted powerful pressure from without. The Socialists adopted a second resolution last night demanding the Poincare cabinet and its resignation.

The cabinet was summoned to meet at noon today for consideration of the budget bill. Just before the ministers assembled M. Herriot, Minister of Interior Sarraut, Minister of Agriculture Queille and Minister of Colonies Perrier called upon the premier and announced their intention of resigning.

2,700,000 TREK TO OHIO POLLS

Cooper-Davey Race for Governorship is Magnet.

BY C. H. HADDOX.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 6.—The battle of the ballots is on today.

Ohio voters are deciding whether Myers Y. Cooper, Cincinnati, Republican, shall be governor of Ohio during the next two years, or whether the gubernatorial office shall be occupied during the coming biennium by Congressman Martin L. Davey, Kent, Democrat.

Election of the Buckeye state, also, are determining whether Ohio's 24 members of the national electoral college shall support Herbert Hoover and Charles Curtis for president and vice president, respectively, or whether they shall vote for Governor Al Smith and U. S. Senator Joseph T. Robinson.

Keyed to a high pitch of partisan enthusiasm, Ohio voters are believed to be establishing a new record as they deposit, in the ballot box, their choice of national, state, congressional, district, county and local candidates.

Both Parties Confident.

Election experts predicted that Buckeye state voters who will exercise their electoral franchise today will number not less than 2,600,000 and may total 3,000,000. Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown, head of the state's election machinery, estimated that at least 2,700,000 Ohio electors will vote today.

With the candidates resting from one of the most intensive political campaigns in the history of this state, leaders of the two major political parties—Republican and Democrat—today repeated the optimistic predictions that their respective national, state and local tickets will be victorious.

State officials to be elected today in Ohio include: a governor, lieutenant governor (for full term of two years beginning next January and for the short term ending on January 1, next) secretary of state, auditor, state treasurer, attorney general, two judges of the Ohio supreme court, and members of the Ohio legislature, including senators and 132 representatives.

Electors Senate Congressmen.

Buckeye state voters, also, are electing two United States senators, 22 congressmen, nine appellate court judges and are accepting or rejecting, a proposed amendment to the Ohio constitution which seeks to permit the salaries of judges now in office to be increased to an equality with those of judges who took office after the last legislature provided for increased salaries for judges.

The proposed constitution prohibits the altering of the salary of a judge while in office.

Besides electing various local officers, Buckeye state voters today are selecting the following county officials: Prosecuting attorney, treasurer, commissioners, surveyor, clerk of the common pleas court, and coroner.

National, state and local candidates are submitted to Ohio voters today by leaders of six political parties—Democratic, Republican, Prohibition, Socialist, Social-Labor, and Workers-Communist. In many localities throughout the state, the ballots contain an added column for independent candidates.

Voters throughout Ohio today, too, are determining the fate of proposals to issue county, city and school bonds and to make special tax levies. If approved, these proposals would result in the issuance of more than $50,000,000 in bonds and the levying of special taxes yielding many millions of dollars annually.

The desires for municipal airports, hospitals, educational institutions, enlargement of municipal institutions and construction of various civic improvements constitute the basis for most of these proposals.

Rocketeer and Wife Early Voters.
NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and his wife, voted early. It was 7:30 when they appeared at a school at 132 West 55th street, and they did not have to wait to vote.

EDISON CASTS NO. 1 BALLOT

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Nov. 6.—Thomas A. Edison, inventive genius, whose 82nd birthday is not far distant, was up before dawn today to cast the first ballot in West Orange. He cast No. 1 ballot and Mrs. Edison cast the second vote. Although he did not state specifically for whom he had voted, Edison has been an active supporter of Herbert Hoover.

Record Poll

growing cities against the rest of the country.

Both candidates for the presidency, Herbert Hoover and Governor Al Smith, made their final appeals to the electorate last night. Hoover appealed to the country as a whole to vote. Governor Smith represented a picture of his own record of a quarter century in public life and asked support on that record. Both used the radio as a vehicle to reach millions of the voters who are going to the polls today.

Appeals to Electorate.
"A man or woman who is not sufficiently interested in the welfare of the country to take the trouble to cast a ballot cannot be said to be a very good citizen," said Governor Smith in his final address.

From far-off Palo Alto, California, his opponent, Herbert Hoover, expressed similar sentiments. He made a particular appeal to the feminine vote of the country.

"The ballot," he said, "is the most sacred individual act in that great system of self-government which we have inherited and which it is our duty to carry forward."

To that extent, at least, the opposing candidates were of one mind today. Both desire the fullest expression of opinion from the electorate that will decide their respective fates.

Claims of Rival Leaders.

The campaign ended with both candidates, Governor Smith and Secretary Hoover, expressing confidence as to the outcome, although both preferred to let their political generalists deal with the actual figures.

Chairman Work of the Republican national committee prophesied in excess of 60 electoral votes for Secretary Hoover. Not to be outdone, Chairman Raskob of the Democratic national committee declared that Governor Smith would have a minimum of 402 electoral votes when the final cast is made.

These 400-figures are publicity figures. Actually, neither the Republican nor the Democratic leaders expect such electoral totals for their respective candidates. Either will be pleased with a victory, however scanty, and no questions asked.

Vote Prejudices, Likes, Dislikes.

The truth is—and it is admitted by most of those styling themselves as practical politicians—that the people themselves have taken this election out of the hands of the party leaders, and are going to vote today their prejudices and their likes and dislikes.

The so-called practical politicians are almost as much at sea as the ordinary observer, however much he may claim for publicity purposes.

For perhaps the first time in the political history of America, there are issues present in this campaign, which not only indirectly, but directly, affect the lives, habits and beliefs of nearly every citizen of voting age. These issues involve religion and prohibition, and the Republican contend, properly, it is upon the first two named, however, that the politicians have focused their attention.

The religious and prohibition issues themselves are almost incalculable as applied to actual votes, and the prosperity issue which the Republicans have raised is similarly cloudy. Democratic orators vigorously dispute the Republican contention that the G. O. P. is the father of the present era of prosperity. The foundation for this prosperity, the Democrats contend, was laid during the Wilson administration. Nevertheless, the prosperity issue has been productive of votes in the past and the Republicans believe it to be efficacious this year, as witness the full page advertisements in most of the daily newspapers of the country, and its emphasis by all Republican orators.

Elements of Doubt in Voting.

Certainly no election in American political history ever held more elements of doubt than the one which the forty millions of voters are deciding today.

Never before has there been an acute religious controversy embodied in an American national election; never before has prohibition figured on a national scale, and never before has there been a new army of ten million voters added to the electorate in a single year.

The new army of voters alone this year is approximately equivalent to the total number of voters in the Harrison-Cleveland contest 40 years ago. Such is the growth of America.

But, gratified as they are over the prospects of a record vote, the practical politicians are worried. Beneath their confident exterior is the gnawing doubt of the unknown—the uncertainty as to what the religious and prohibition issue may mean when translated into votes, and the even greater uncertainty of this greatly increased registration that is common to every section of the country.

Auto Kills Cleveland Woman.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 6.—An unidentified woman, about 50 years old, was killed here early today when she was struck by an automobile while walking across a street. The driver of the car was taken into custody for questioning, while the victim's body is held for identification at the county morgue.

OHIOANS IN 22 ZONES TO NAME CONGRESSMEN

Winners Will go to Washington Next March.

TWO-YEAR TERM

Murphy and Whitacre Rivals in Eighteenth District.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 6.—Ohioans today are electing a delegation of 22 congressmen to represent the Buckeye state in the national house of representatives, Washington, D. C., during the two-year period beginning March 4, next.

One congressman will be chosen from each district.

The winners will come from the following list of nominees:

First district—Nicholas Longworth, Cincinnati, Republican, seeking re-election; Arthur Espy, Cincinnati, Democrat.

Second district—William E. Hess, Cincinnati, Republican; James H. Cleveland, Glendale, Democrat.

Third district—Roy G. Fitzgerald, Dayton, Republican, seeking re-election; Frank L. Humphrey, Dayton, Democrat.

Profio And Vivio Draw In Six Rounds; Moran Outpoints Wilde

Slugging Match is Toss-up

Pittsburgh K. O. Artist is Dropped for Short Count.

Battling one of the best boys he has tackled since emerging from the ranks of the amateurs where he hung up 14 knockouts in 18 fights, Dominick Profio, the dynamic Pittsburgh puncher, last night drew in six rounds with Young Vivio because he could not swing his way through Vivio's defense to inflict the full force of his sleep producing wallop.

Profio can slug and he can wallop from bell to bell. In the peak of condition, apparently, he keeps boring in all the time, but—if his heavy artillery is rendered impotent, he has little else left except to swing and swing.

And last night Vivio blocked his powerful swings and outboxed the young knockout artist for six rounds of fighting, every one broiling with action. And he did more. He put Profio on the canvas for the first time in that young worthy's short career to date.

It happened in the first round and rather startled Profio, unaccustomed as he had been to such intimate contact with the resin covered canvas.

Vivio Scores With Right.

In a session at close quarters, Vivio uncocked a short right hook that traveled fast and true to Profio's jaw. It knocked Profio down on his hip pockets. But Profio is tough and can absorb a lot of that stuff and he was back on his feet with his arms flailing at the count of three.

Profio's wildness counted against him. He swung with reckless abandon from start to finish and while he rocked Vivio on several occasions he lacked the snap and the accuracy to do the latter any damage.

Profio made the mistake of trying to box with Vivio in the opening sessions and took a flock of jabs in the face which, however, were more or less half hearted until Vivio let that right go.

Profio's strength and endurance probably would have told over a longer route. He gives his opponent no rest whatever and in the closing round belted Vivio somewhat freely although the latter outmaneuvered his opponent and kept clear of the punch that Profio had tried for six rounds to put in the proper spot.

The welter fought the semifinal to the eight-round main between Midet Mike Moran of Mt. Washington, Pa., and Johnny Wilde, better known as Young Corso, of Canton.

Moran is Victor.

Moran won the decision. The western Pennsylvania veteran knew too much for the Canton youngster although the latter jabbed Moran rather successfully with a left at long range.

This Moran did not permit when he could avoid it and carried the fight to Wilde consistently.

Ray Mitchell, local junior welterweight, won the decision over Jackie Welch of Sebring in the second-round preliminary. Mitchell was too strong for the Mahoning countess although what he fought was game all the way.

Pete Ross, Irish featherweight, a newcomer in local ring circles, outboxed Nick Caruso, Midland, in the four-round opener. Ross revealed a potent left that jarred the Midland lad hard on several occasions.

The work of Tom McDonough, referee, was outstanding. The performance of the third man in the ring can make or mar a fight. McDonough's work left little to be asked. If there's any right in a fighter he'll get it out of him and this, of course, is to the liking of the fans.

Fight Results

AT NEW CASTLE, Pa.—Hank Firpo, of Louisville, Ky., outpointed Floyd Hybert, of Ashtabula, O., 10 rounds.

Joe Goodman, Norfolk, Va., kayoed Johnny Connelly, Toledo, first round. Bernie Dugan, of Toledo, drew with Tom O'Leary, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., 4 rounds.

AT COLUMBUS, O.—Walter Palmer, Kansas City Negro, kayoed Otis Williams, Columbus heavyweight, 4 rounds.

Tony Scalante, Mexican boxer, won decision over Homer Roman, of Newark, O., 12 rounds.

Fred Mehan, Mexican welterweight, stopped Bert Heathfield, Columbus, 3 rounds.

AT NEW YORK—Palino Uzundun, Spanish heavyweight, won decision over Otto Von Porat, of Chicago, 10 rounds.

Arthur Dekuh, Brooklyn Italian, knocked out Tiny Roebuck, Indian heavyweight, first round.

AT INDIANAPOLIS—Jimmy Slattery, Buffalo, N. Y., light-heavyweight, won from Vic McLaughlin, New York, on technical knockout, 6 rounds.

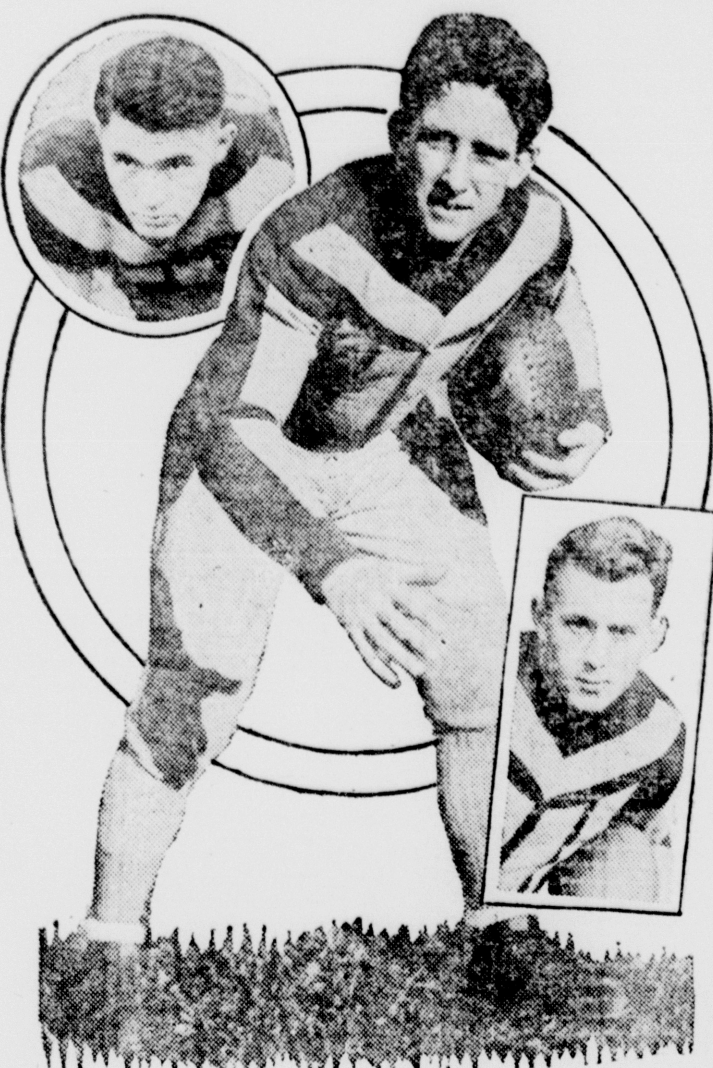

Joe O'Malley, Columbus, Ohio, defeated Ray Hahn, Indianapolis, welterweight, 8 rounds.

AT PHILADELPHIA—Pete Nabo, Florida Indian, scored technical knockout over Mike Dundee, of Rock Island, Ill., 3 rounds.

WILL END GRID CAREERS THIS FALL

ALLIANCE, Nov. 6.—The gridiron careers for the two outstanding Mount Union college speed merchants, Wilbur Meredith (center) and Lester Emerson (lower right), are rapidly drawing to an end as the 1928 football season approaches its finale. This is the third season that these two ball toters have been making the Mount games spectacular by their long end runs and their line plunging. Emerson last year was the only Ohio college gridiron to return a kickoff for a touchdown, and he returned two, one against Case for 90

Boston Votes Unanimously For Ed Morris

Red Sox Hurler Builds Up "Rep" in Work at Hub This Year.

On the day of election Boston and the state of Massachusetts are still classed as being a little doubtful. Smith, Hoover and the politicians are still wrangling over the strength of each party in the state which made famous the cod, and Boston, the Hub of the works, is naturally being claimed by the followers of the elephant as well as the followers of the donkey.

From a spectator's standpoint it seems that both of the boys who are running for the biggest job in the country—in point of honor—are overlooking a great chance to set themselves in solid with the good residents of the Hub. If one of the parties had listed Ed Morris on the local ticket in Boston for some sort of a political job Ed would have likely carried the city by a considerable margin and lugged along the rest of the ticket with him. And he might even have helped carry the state for the party that was fast enough to have thought up the idea.

Ed Morris, you know, spent the Summer in Boston pitching baseball for the Boston Red Sox. The Sox, it is true, didn't make any record to cause the burning of red fire on the Commons or even in Harvard Square but Ed Morris built up quite a reputation for himself despite the fact that he was operating on a tail-end team.

Of the 57 different varieties of ball games won during the season by Bill Carrigan's outfit, Morris is credited with winning 19, which, if the old school books hold good, is exactly one-third of the total wins. And that's a considerable record in any baseball league. Given a couple of more pitchers as good as Morris and Carrigan might have won the old bunting in the American league.

Add to this the fact that Morris started the season as just another ball tosser with no major league experience back of him and you present another good reason for the present popularity of Big Ed in Boston.

When Carrigan spared Morris from the Southern association last season, his name was listed among three other hurlers. But he leaned the intervening spaces and galloped home as one of the best if not the best first-year pitcher in the American league. In awaiting the most valuable player award in the American league this Fall, Morris probably wasn't given a chance. But if the Boston fans had been allowed to vote on the subject Ed, without question, would have been declared the winner. Undoubtedly Morris is Carrigan's most valuable player.

Morris is 28 years old, stands six feet three and tilts the weight contraption around the 190 figure. During the last season he won 19 while he was losing 15, thereby figuring in the final results of 34 matinee performances. Only one other pitcher in the American league bettered this record. Pippas, of New York Yankees, figured in the finals of 37 games.

Facing a tough task in twirling winning ball for a last hole team Morris never "beefed." He went in and worked out of his turn on a good many days and thus earned the well deserved "rep" of being an iron man, and he's an idol in the Hub.

Boston could probably sell Morris for a pile of coin. But Boston is interested in building up a winning ball club and therefore there isn't any chance of seeing Ed on the block.

MIDDIES COUNT ON HARD GAME

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 6.—While Navy rotters are cheerful because of the team's excellent showing in its last two games, the coaches realize that the Midshipmen will have a tough customer on their hands next Saturday in Michigan. Two Navy scouts saw the Wolverines trim Illinois and were greatly impressed by their showing.

CHESTER BILLED AT FOLLANSBEE

Coach Keightley's Chester high school gridironers are facing another tough battle Saturday when they take on Follansbee on the Follansbee grid. The Chester squad was defeated by a score of 54 to 0 at Weirton Saturday by the most powerful eleven that has ever represented the steel town school.

Albert Cutler Featured in Cue Session

Noted Instructor to Give Exhibition Here.

Albert G. Cutler, well-known billiard player and instructor, will demonstrate to local billiard fans the fundamentals and fine point of billiards in a series of exhibitions at the Club Billiard Parlor Nov. 9, afternoon and night. Mr. Cutler is appearing here under the direction of the National Billiard Association of America.

Mr. Cutler's exhibitions will be unique in that they deal more with instruction to the player rather than the time worn custom of billiard experts who confine their exhibition to expert and fancy shot making alone, which usually leaves the onlooker with a puzzled impression that the game is too difficult for the average player to attain any high degree of skill.

Cutler in his exhibitions overcomes this and demonstrates how to make shots, explaining them at the same time. He not only is a wonderful player, but an advanced student in the art of explaining the different technical points of the game. He will also play in competition with local billiardists, afternoon and evening, in straight rail, balkline and three cushion games.

CADETS EXPECT STIFF BATTLE

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 6.—Despite the fact that Army is favored to defeat Notre Dame decisively in New York next Saturday, Coach Jones is not taking the Hoosiers lightly. The Soldiers, all of whom are in perfect condition, will get plenty of hard work this week in preparation for the classic. Only a light kicking and passing drill was held yesterday.

Poor crops in Latvia are causing farmers there to face stringent times this year.

FAILS TO BOOST TITLE CHANCES

Otto Van Porat, Norwegian heavyweight, was outpointed by Paulino Uzundun in 10 rounds last night in Madison Square Garden and failed to leave much of an impression as a heavyweight contender. Porat was rated as a heavy puncher but he failed to show anything until the closing rounds when it was too late.

Paulino Wins From Norwegian In 10-Round Scrap at Garden

Otto Van Porat Makes Great Rally in Final Sessions But Fails to Overtake Basque.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 6.—Among those present at Madison Square Garden last night, for no reason at all, were 14,356 persons who won't be heavyweight champions of the world. At that, they didn't differ very radically from a couple of chumps they were looking at, except in one detail. The chumps didn't pay their way in. One of life's minor absurdities is that they didn't have to pay their way out either.

As a matter of fact, everything was taken in good part by Paulino Uzundun, the well-known human being, just managed to stay in front of Otto Van Porat at the bell, ending the tenth and final round, for the champs had put on a good show, even if it was strictly five-day stuff heavy-weight champions in prospect—not even in sarcasm.

Paulino never will be champion because a champion must fight and this guy can't. As for Otto, he can't fight because he won't. He simply was afraid to let a punch go until Paulino was in there with one eye and then it was the eighth round and too late for anything practical to be done about it.

They said before the fight that Otto was the hardest hitter in the world and maybe that is so. Personally, I want to know about the way he hit the floor for the second of two knock-downs scored by Paulino during the fight. I have seen a lot of weak hitters sock the floor much harder than that. Otto undoubtedly has come a long way since that night in the same ring several years ago when he decided to tender his resignation in the eighth or ninth round because that awful rough fellow, Martin Burke, was dusting him on the porcelain with his brutal finger tips. But that's one thing about Otto. He could come a very long way and still be approximately nowhere.

Many farmers in Germany are facing hard times because of poor crops this year.

Old Eli Star Making Yard Gaining Pay

Caldwell And His Giants in Action Today.

Bucking politics on Election Day is a whole lot like trying to get your Aunt Sarah to act her age, put on long skirts again and let her hair grow. It can be done, but it's a pretty tough task.

But something must be done to amuse the voters after they have gone to the polls and saved the nation for another four years. There are a lot of sympathetic business organizations who are still old-fashioned enough to give the help plenty of time off to do their regular fall voting and country saving and there's usually enough time left over to do a little classy pool shooting or to see a movie in the neighborhood or go home and put in a little two-fisted napping.

While college football frowns on mid-week games, the boys who guide the destinies of the professional pigskin toters aren't so considerate of how much line-bucking is done by their charges or when. They're anxious to test the gate receipts at the least provocation. In Kokomo, Ind., are wondering what to do with their spare time—after voting—the country savers in New York City will have a chance to attend a football game.

Tim Mara, the president of the New York Giants, has scheduled a game with the Pottsville team at the Polo Grounds and the voters will have an opportunity to see—among other famous gridironers—Bruce Caldwell in action as a professional triple threat.

Bruce, the former Yale star, who has been playing major league baseball at Cleveland since he graduated at New Haven last Spring, lost no time in wriggling out of his Indiana suit and signing up with Mara for a season in the mole skins.

In joining the pro football ranks, Caldwell is doing just what everybody thought he would do and is following in the footsteps of such other gridiron luminaries as Red Grange, Benny Friedman, Ernie Nevers and Jim Thorpe. Caldwell received offers from almost every team in the pro league, and it is said that he will rake in plenty of shekels for his work with the Giants, who won the league championship last season.

Caldwell, it will be recalled, was one of the outstanding stars on the Bulldog machine last Fall when he was suddenly disqualified for the games with Princeton and Harvard by the Yale Board of Athletic Control. The news came five days before the Princeton game and the cause of his suspension was the discovery that he had played twenty minutes of football in his freshman year at Brown.

Both Princeton and Harvard requested that he be allowed to play despite the so-called infringement on the transfer agreement between the schools but the New Haven authorities refused to grant the requests. The "deal" caused quite a commotion and gave Caldwell widespread publicity but it wasn't the sort of publicity he craved. He would have much preferred to have played in the games and earned his publicity through ground gaining just as he had done in the games he did play.

Potters Drill for Ferrians

Play Powerful Rivals in Dedication Game.

Facing one of the stiffest games on their schedule with the possible exception of Canton McKinley, East Liverpool high gridriders launched the week's practice sessions for the Martins Ferry battle here Saturday with some limbering up tactics.

The squad in general was rather badly bunged up Saturday and several days will be needed to iron out the kinks. Halfback Chetwyn in all probability will be out for the remainder of the season, as a result of a cracked collar bone unless the injury proves less serious than it is now believed to be.

The game with Martins Ferry has been selected as the event for the dedication of the new Patterson Field stadium and will be preceded by a short program of band music and talks during which the stadium will be formally presented to the board of education and the city.

And while the dedication ceremonies, which will be directed by a school board committee headed by Dr. Colin Kiersey, will be attractive in themselves, the battle with the Ferrians will be the outstanding event of the day and possible the season.

Martins Ferry last Saturday defeated Bellaire by a two touchdown margin. Bellaire two weeks ago won from the Potters by a 6 to 6 tally. On the face of comparative scores, the Potters could appear outscored but in the opinion of grid followers here who witnessed the Bellaire battle here, the Blue and White can upset the dope, possibly by playing heads-up football.

Coach Hurst will likely work his squads lightly tonight with stiff sessions scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday.

INDIANA STAR ON INJURED LIST

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Nov. 6.—Gloom prevailed on the Indiana campus today when it was learned that Randolph, veteran center, might not be available for Saturday's game against Minnesota. He was injured in the Ohio State fray.

ILLINOIS LOSES ONE MAN, MAYBE TWO

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 6.—The injuries to Mills and Timm added to the woes of the Illini in their defeat by Michigan Saturday. Both were injured in that heartbreaking struggle, Timm will be out for the season.

IOWA TRAINING FOR OHIO GAME

IOWA CITY, Iowa, Nov. 6.—Iowa's unbeaten football eleven trained today for the most important game on their schedule, with Ohio at Columbus Saturday. Papa, the blond demon of the backfield, is being groomed as a passer, sharing the burden with Ar mll and Glassgow.

UNBEATEN BUCKS SET FOR IOWANS

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 6.—With the Big Ten title at stake, Ohio's undefeated grid warriors began "setting their trap" for Iowa here Saturday. Several of the varsity players are out temporarily with injuries sustained in the game with Princeton. They expect to be in shape for Iowa.

WIEMAN BUILDS UP AIR ATTACK

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 6.—Michigan's reborn football team is drilling with zest for the Navy game Saturday. Coach Tad Wieman, taking advantage of the new spirit since the Wolverines defeated Illinois, is trying to build up the passing attack for which Michigan teams have heretofore been famous.

with Eli last Fall against the Army and Dartmouth.

Tad Jones, his coach at Yale, rated the Rhode Island youth as the equal to Jim Thorpe, Ernie Nevers and Eddie Mahan, who have been ranked as the greatest backfield stars of all time. With such a reputation Caldwell is expected to help the Giants win another league championship before snow falls.

The Giants have a schedule which runs through December 8 and the former Yale plunger will have ample opportunity to prove what he can do against professional opposition.

Barring injury this Fall, Caldwell expects to be with the Cleveland Indians again next Spring, but right now he's interested in gaining yards at so much a yard.

DAPHNE

Thrilling story of love of two girls for the same man

By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

She picked up the old suitcase, her childish blue serge coat. Time to be going. . . Just one last look out of the window, it wouldn't take a minute. . . Down went the suitcase again, Daphne was on her knees at the window, looking out. Looking out over the orchards, the long green cista of trees fading into the smoky distance, the warm, blur of the first sunburst hills, the misty blue of the Santa Cruz mountains beyond.

The fruit was beginning to fall now. The ground was purple with the sun warmed pines, their heavy sweetness drugged the air. Under the biggest tree on the edge of the lawn she met Ralph, in blossom time. . . Ralph. . . Well that was over. Nothing to keep her now, nobody wanted her not even her own father. Once she thought he wanted her. Just once, in her whole life. It was the day they took her mother away and buried her on the hillside under the drying, windswept grass.

She had been so dazed, so lonely and afraid, so worn with weeping, and he had been so cold and far-away in his black clothes, seeming not to care. And then when they had come back to the empty house with the chairs in rows as the undertaker had left them, with the shades still drawn shutting out the sun, shutting in the damp, funeral smell of florists' flowers, then she had come upon him sitting all alone in the parlor, with his head in his hands.

And he had suddenly seemed old and lonely, and needing her. A pathetic old man in shirt sleeves, his best black coat over the back of the chair. Her small hand curled inside his. She felt his big, rough fingers close over hers gratefully, a convulsive movement, a spasm of pain. His voice was softer, kinder than it had even been when he said, "you and I, all alone now, girl." And something went down in his throat that sounded like. . . "Sorry. . . didn't mean to be hard. . . just a way. . ."

She had leaned toward him then, her thin little face twitching pitifully. "Oh let's love each other now—let's begin—begin all over—"

But she couldn't go on, her voice broke, she was crying again. And then Mrs. Garroty, the dressmaker who had come to make the black dress for the funeral, was pulling her away, away from her father. Puffing and cooing sweetness. "There, there, no tears, girl! We gotta be brave and find the sunshine. Now, now you mustn't be selfish and make your poor dear papa feel any worse than he does—Take Auntie Adelina's hankie!"

Auntie Adelina's hankie! Black bordered. . . as if Mrs. Garroty had anything to mourn about, as if she's ever call her Auntie Adelina!

But Adelina Garroty's red face and brassy yellow hair had come between them just the same. She had lost her father, and never could find him again. And after awhile she had to call Mrs. Garroty "Mamma". . .

Nothing to keep her now. . . nothing. . . They were finishing lunch in the kitchen when she came down, carrying the suitcase, the purse and coat in her hand. "I'm going to the city. I've decided to get a position. I know I can, because I can type fast, and my shorthand is good. I—I know you don't want me here—"

She said the first part very fast, because she had said it over so many times in her mind, but she stumbled on the last part. Hesitated, floundered.

Well! If that's the way you feel about it!" her step-mother said crisply. "I'm sure I have nothing to say, I'm not one to hold anybody against their will—not I!"

Crystal snickered into her napkin. "Heaven will protect the working girl," she murmured.

"Will you keep quiet?" Her mother turned on her angrily. And then back to Daphne. "Well—what is it now? Out with it—what are you waiting for if you're going—"

"Nothing I guess—nothing."

"Because if it's money you gotta remember you father ain't rich, he's only a poor man, and times are hard—"

"No, no—I have money—plenty!" Daphne's dark head was tilted roundly, her soft red mouth was firm. . . But her eyes were pleading, pleading for something. . . she didn't know what. They searched her father. Surely he would say something. Surely he would stop eating, tell her not to go like that. . .

His thick hands lifted the coffee cup, he drank noisily, with a greedy, sucking sound. He piled the hash high on his fork in a neat, high pyramid, patted it down with his knife.

"Don't you care?" The words tumbled out in a little breathless rush. "Don't you care at all? Because if you do I—I won't go if you don't want me. I'd stay—I'd—"

"Don't let me stop you," he said harshly, "you're so smart, go on! And the time will come, young lady, when you'll appreciate the good home you left, and wish you hadn't been smarter than your father!" He caught Adelina's eye. . . he wanted her approval so. . . His voice was harsher still when he went on, dramatically, "So, if you go—go—only don't come back. You're making your own bed, you'll have to lay on it—"

He went back to his hash, breathing noisily.

Daphne picked up the suitcase. At the door she looked back. You ought to kiss your father when you're going away. . . But he said to Adelina, still with his mouth full. "I see where Hoggins wants to sell his cow."

She gave up then, closed the door behind her, walked up the orchard road in the sun and the dust to the highway, to wait for the bus.

The driver jumped down from his high seat and took her shopping bag. "San Francisco? Right!"

She climbed in beside two drummers in loud checked suits. They looked at her curiously. One nudged the other. But Daphne did not see them. Her eyes were blinded with tears.

In the old house beyond the orchards, getting farther and farther away every minute, Old Man Haines followed his wife from room to room, his short arms dangling restlessly.

"You don't think Daphne'll get into any trouble?" "Oh she'll be back soon enough," Adelina returned briskly.

"Well. . . the murmured. . . "Well. . ."

He was afraid He would have liked to go after her, to call her back. But he was more afraid of Adelina. So he lit his pipe instead.

CHAPTER 7.

"Till nexer go back!" Daphne whispered to herself that first night, as she lay wide-eyed in the dark little room she had found out on Geary Street. "Not even if I starve."

But of course she wouldn't starve, she'd find a position in the morning. Even if she had to wait a week or two weeks, there was money enough. Twenty dollars still untaken, besides a big silver dollar, and eighty-nine cents in dimes and nickels and pennies in her red leather purse. And the room rent paid for a month.

It wasn't a very nice room. She hated to think of living in it a whole month, but the landlady wouldn't let it by the week, and she couldn't find anything else so cheap.

Tomorrow she would leave the window wide open all day—that would help. The room smelled sort of queer now. The whole house smelled queer. The smell of cabbage and stale coffee and damp. . . the musty damp of unaired blankets, unwashed clothes. . .

But it was in a respectable, quiet location, Daphne knew that. It was on the Geary Street car line, an old two-story frame house, thirsty for paint. There were lace curtains in the front window, and a glass sign hanging by a brass chain. "Mada ve Hinkle. Gowns." And stuck in the glass some colored pictures from a fashion book, and another sign on cardboard, "Room to Rent."

Daphne was glad to find it. She had ridden out on the cars with her suitcase, home to find a room out there because one of her school teachers lived in that location with her mother, and Daphne had once visited her in vacation time. It was the only street-car line she knew.

"A girl can't be too car-fol in the city," the prim little teacher had said meaningfully.

Well, Daphne was going to be careful. But a little touch of excitement cheered her as she lay there in the dark, all alone, and no one to care.

Letters To The Editor

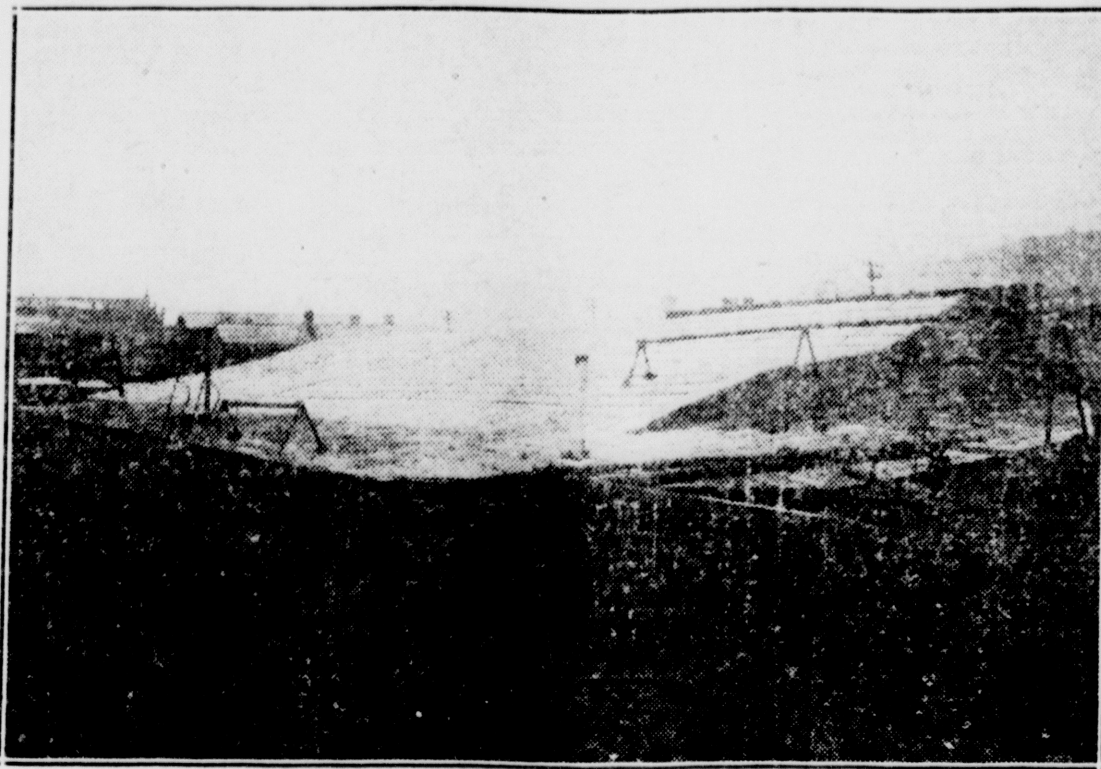

Protests "Unsportsmanlike."
East Liverpool, Nov. 5, 1928.
Editor, Review.
City:

Dear Sir:—
In our game with Salem Saturday the same old tactics of unsportsmanlike conditions cropped up, which put a blench on the contest and a strain on our relations with Salem.
The officials at times did not know what to do and in one case were influenced by a Salem fan who was on one end of the line. Skidmore, our outstanding kicker and a fast man, made a 50-yard run on a forward pass. The officials had placed the ball down and the teams were ready to resume play on the spot when this fan called in the umpire and whispered something in his ear which caused him to return the ball to the starting place and resume play from that point.

If the play was illegal, why was East Liverpool not penalized?
This was a turning point against us and our coach was justified in protesting such a rank steal and unfair decision. One official was behind the team, one on the side and one behind the other team. They did not see anything wrong. Why did they change their decision by doing what an outsider told them?

BILLY SUNDAY TABERNACLE ON CITY PLAYGROUND

Here is an exterior view of the Billy Sunday tabernacle occupying the playground at Second and Washington streets, where the veteran evangelist opened a six-week revival campaign Sunday. The big "shed" has seating accommodations for 3,500 persons and a choir loft with places for about 200 singers.

Salem's touchdown was protested as not being over the line. When our captain protested the referee told him to shut up or he would put them off the field. When the whistle blew the referee threw up his arms denoting a touchdown, when he could not see the ball. One official, it is said, had a brother on the team and I heard that one Salem backfield man did not go to school all last year. Two years ago one of the officials, it was reported, had $50 bet on Salem.

When they come here, we, like clams, do whatever they say. If we are to continue our athletic relations let us have an understanding that we will not tolerate any more of this unfair treatment. If we cannot get it let us sever relations.

Besides the treatment in the field, after the game our boys had to wash in cold water and with no soap. This I deem an insult.

Respectfully,
F. M. McCONVILLE.

BILLY SUNDAY HITTING TARGET

It is no longer a question of wet and dry but one of law or contempt for law.

The supreme court has decided that the Volstead law is binding on all the states; so all that is left is to obey it and see that it is obeyed.

If my wife were wet I would fight her as I am fighting Al Smith.

The arguments against prohibition are as weak soup made from the shadow of a chicken that was starved to death.

Routed at the polls, outlawed by the congress, beaten by the courts the liquor traffic resorts to open defiance and red handed anarchy.

Prohibition is a political orphan, mothered by the W. C. T. U., abandoned by its father, the church, a foundling which no one desires to adopt.

The preacher should cry aloud on prohibition, but his lips are padlocked by a bunch of Godless officials.

As the patriots of 1776 died for the Declaration of Independence every American should pledge his life, his property and sacred honor to the defense of the constitution.

Seventy-four per cent of the criminals of the country are young folks, the age of prostitution having dropped from 26 to 16.

Six thousand new churches and not one new brewery were built in the United States last year.

When you plead for the sinner you plead for poverty, crime, misery, not one benefit to the world.

If we expect our boys and girls to be moral and law abiding we must be moral and law abiding ourselves.

AKRON BANDIT GETS $2,000

AKRON, Nov. 6. — A lone bandit, who bound and gagged two persons in the Strand theater, in the heart of the downtown district here, and escaped with about $2,000 in cash was the object of a police search here today.

Ray C. Brown, manager, and Mrs. Harvey Lawton, ticket seller, were in Brown's office on the second floor, counting the day's receipts, when the robber appeared, forced Mrs. Lawton to open the safe, scooped its contents into a bag, and then bound his two victims. He also gagged them with adhesive tape.

Brown was able to unfasten his hands first and then freed Mrs. Lawton. Attendants said they did not see the robber leave.

There are in Europe today 35,000,000 nationals living under government by a different nation, according to a recent estimate.
